

From: Bob Sussman
To: Ramona Trovato; Jeanne Briskin; Michael Overbay; Glenn Paulson; Jose Zambrana
Cc: Lek Kadeli
Subject: Chesapeake Prospective Case Study
Date: 12/12/2012 07:24 PM

I spoke to Paul Hagemeier and John Satterfield about our efforts to identify a new site for our prospective case study.

Paul reiterated his commitment to the case study and finding a new site. He said that Chesapeake is already reviewing maps of its various lease holdings to evaluate options.

He committed to sitting down with us early in the New Year to review site possibilities. John said that he would be in touch with Ramona to set up this meeting.

Paul expressed an interest in working through ANGA and API to discuss partnering with other companies on the study. (b) (5)

[REDACTED] I told Paul to be cautious in moving in this direction because we did not want to make the case study vastly more complicated.

Paul mentioned that he's still interested in a New York site. I pointed out the disadvantages and said that because of the political situation, EPA could not agree to a New York site without consulting the state agency, which might have significant concerns.

Paul also mentioned that we could use materials we developed with Chesapeake in discussions with other candidate companies for case studies but should probably check back before we share specific documents.

(b) (5) [REDACTED] Keep me posted.

Robert M. Sussman
Senior Policy Counsel to the Administrator
Office of the Administrator
US Environmental Protection Agency